CHIEFTAIN '80

WEST GEORGIA COLLEGE

In January, 1908, The Fourth District Agricultural and Mechanical School opened here with 96 students under Principal John Holland Melson. In 1933 the state withdrew support from its agricultural high schools and also Bowdon College, eleven miles west of here. As a result, this school was reorganized as West Georgia College, a junior unit of the University System of Georgia. It became a senior college in 1957 under President Irvine Sullivan Ingran who headed the Institution from 1920 to 1960. This was the longest administrative tenure in the history of the University of Georgia if its system schools are included.

Originally there were two brick buildings, being Melson Hall and the Administration building. Adamson Hall was added in 1917. All stand (in 1966) west of this point. The frame structure on this site was built c. 1845 as the plantation house of Thomas Bonner. In April, 1865, the house was raided by Federal cavalry under Brigadier-General John T. Croxton whose campsite was at a road-forks one mile west of here. The house became the first women's dormitory on this campus. Until 1917 its location was 300 yards west of this point. Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered the commencement address here in 1929.

ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY

The West Georgia College Astronomical Observatory is under the direction of Dr. Bobby Powell. It is equipped with a 14 inch reflecting telescope (Cassegrain focus). The facility is used for making visual and photographic observations by both astronomy classes and the general public.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

The members of the Model United Nations Club and the awards won at the 1980 meeting at Auburn University: Michael Flinn, Tony Boatright; Dr. Paul Masters (coach), Keenan Mitchell, Barry Easterwood, Alan Duke, Laurie Paul, and Cheryl Lovell.

The Model United Nations Club is a chartered student organization open to all students. Each year since 1975 members have participated in the Southeastern Invitational by representing different countries in a General Assembly and Security Council. Such a simulation enables them to understand the political behavior of other nations. Dr. Paul Masters of the political science department is the faculty advisor and coach.

RECREATION COUNCIL CLUB

The recreation majors who belong to the Recreation Council Club sponsored by the Department of Physical Education and Recreation take part in many community activities which help prepare them for their own careers.

The Council helps with the annual Special Olympics Program. Members also work with people of all ages in the Carrollton Recreation Department's many activities.

The Recreation Council Club recently aided in the construction of a 1.5 mile fitness trail on campus which is now being used by conditioning classes and individuals.

Dr. Dave Dugan is coordinator of the Recreation Curriculum and advisor to the club. Danny Bearden is the Director of the council for 1979-80.

Other officers are: Russ Sharp, Stephanie Crawford, Mike McClure, Gayle Smith, Greg Kilgore, Bobby Goldson, Amy Hardin, and Eddie Canon.

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT SIMULATION

Business Management Simulation offers students a chance to make crucial decisions involving a mock firm's business dealings during a two-year period. Classroom knowledge is put to a practical test.

Competition is provided each year through the Intercollegiate Business Game sponsored by Emory University. Teams from thirty colleges and universities from across the nation pit their managerial skills via Emory's computer center. At the end of game play, the teams meet for three days in Atlanta. Case studies and oral presentations are made to a panel of business leaders who act as judges. Industry winners then compete to determine an overall winner. West Georgia College's team has been an industry winner three times and was overall winner last year. Dr. Leland Gustafson and Dr. Bill Phillips are Faculty advisors.

Claire Dixon, Bill Vaughn, Cathy Tally, and Stan Lowery reach agreement on a corporate decision.

Bret Ridgway, Ann Barr, Diane Sullins and Professor Gustafson watch Tom Moore chart a course of action.

Bill Vaughn, Cathy Tally, Ann Barr, Stan Lowery, Marty Underwood and Brett Ridgway plan a merger.

DAY CARE CENTER

The Campus Day Care Program is a part of the Early Childhood Department of the School of Education.

The staff all have undergraduate degrees in Early Childhood and are working on graduate degrees in the same area.

Both undergraduates and graduates do field experience at the Center. Child care theory is based upon Piagetian concepts.

Care is offered for a four hour period, during which the children participate in free play and group activities, as well as in guided play and curriculum activities.

Language arts are taught along with games and creative arts. Children also cook simple dishes under supervision and learn about mixing and physical changes.

The Center is administrated by Dr. Virgil Short and is directed by Emily Johnson, both of the Early Childhood Department of the School of Education.

NURSING

The Nursing Program at West Georgia College graduated its first class in 1976.

The two year/six quarter course of study leads to an Associate of Science degree in Nursing. Students may then become Registered Nurses by passing state examinations.

The program is directed by Jeanette Bernhardt. Presently, there is a staff of six full time instructors. Enrollment in the program is normally limited to fifty students.

CERAMICS

Under the direction of Cameron Covert, who studied with the late Mark Hansen, students learn about the structure of glass and the composition of various clays and glazes.

The students design and make their own pots and ceramic objects and fire them in electric and gas kilns.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

The aim of the Foreign Languages Program is to make students aware of different cultures. Courses are taught in Spanish, French, German and Latin. Emphasis is placed on conversation as well as on literature.

Each year a Foreign Language Day is held which is attended by visitors to the college as well as students. The language laboratory is one of the best equipped in the state. It provides students with many services, including cassettes to be taken home for study. The program is directed by Dr. Douglas Hilt.

During the past 30 years, Southwire Company has hired hundreds of young men and women from colleges and universities spanning the nation. Among these are a considerable number of graduates of West Georgia College, a veritable wealth of creative talent.

These WGC graduates now work in almost every phase of Southwire's operations - from management to metallurgy, finance to foreign languages, employment to economics. At Southwire, West Georgia grads serve in communications, purchasing, sales, and research and development. Many have bachelor's degrees, and an equal number have obtained master's degrees.

It is through the constant supply of fresh ideas furnished by the graduates of our colleges that Southwire Company has continued its remarkable growth in the past three decades. Because of this, we strongly support our educational system as the basis of successful private enterprise and constantly search for keen professionals to fill available jobs.

Pictured here are a sampling of West Georgia College graduates now working in various capacities throughout the company.

EDITOR'S PAGE

After having taken over 600 pictures and used approximately 200 hours of my free time in the production of this book, in addition to working at my "real" job an average of 20 hours per week, I can feel nothing but contempt for those who could have worked on the CHIEFTAIN but claimed they "didn't have time."

Therefore, this, my final duty, is made simpler. There is but a handful of people to thank.

First, to Professor Bill Doxey I owe deepest gratitude. He refused to let the CHIEFTAIN die and he never let me give up. Doxey's wife, Lyndall, began pinch-hitting in our ad sales "department" and worked hard to provide the bulk of our advertising sales revenue.

Roxy Sherrill, our sole darkroom technician, saved our hides by processing and printing those 600 pictures. I'm very grateful to her.

Another big thank you to Jerry Mock and Jane Bentley of the Learning Resources Center who provided equipment and darkroom facilities.

Those who took or provided pictures include Tony Boatright, Carroll Publishing Company, Curtis Cox, David Edwards, Glovis Gore, Donna Jeter, Dan Minish, Marcia McCrory, Bob Owen, David Parkman, Dr. Bobby Powell, Roxy Sherrill, Tracy Tate, Betty Walker, the WEST GEORGIAN, and Darrie Wohlman.

To a cooperative and understanding faculty, thank you for putting up with inconveniences and, in the case of many faculty members, for going all out to facilitate production.

To Mel Caraway, infinite gratitude for his help with budget matters, and to Polly Cosper, Mel's secretary, thanks for taking messages for us.

And to the most helpful and patient man on earth, Ross Henderson of Walsworth Publishing, thank you for guiding another new crew through to another yearbook.

And students, this is as varied a representation of our campus life as our miniscule staff could make it. If you want improvements, it's your book and there's always next year. If you can find the time, join the staff!
